

Suzanne F. Wendorf, MA

Professional Summary

Suzanne F. Wendorf, Wendorf Beward & Partners, LLC (WB&P), has more than 30 years of providing counseling and educational services to the public culminating as the Head of the Counseling Department for 1800 students. Suzanne has counseled adults and students in career paths, crisis adaptation, basic and advanced mathematics concepts and skills and other education related areas. Implementing the concept that “everyone can learn” in challenging educational environments with success has been the hallmark of Suzanne’s career. Suzanne’s application of Stephen Covey’s “Seven Habits of Highly Effective People” to the public education environment in a practical, outcome based method has changed students lives for the better. Counseling that communication, strong listening skills and cooperation are paramount to maximizing the educational process has led to turn arounds in intractable situations concerning parents and students. Suzanne has taught these precepts in individual and group training, coaching and other development environments.

In 2016 Suzanne turned her skill application to WB&P to provide performance improvement services to the public and private sector through a nontraditional consulting engineering firm. Her activities to date have been providing back office support to service providers servicing a client base including Houstonfirst, Texas Department of Health and Human Services Commission and other state and local governments.

Suzanne is a recognized leader in Texas public education and counseling. She has earned the Teacher of the Year Award, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers Honorary Life Membership and other recognition in the Fort Bend and North East Independent School Districts.

Suzanne is holds State of Texas Counseling and Teaching Certificates. She earned a master's degree in counseling from the University of Texas at San Antonio, and a bachelor’s degree in educational curriculum and instruction from Texas A&M University in College Station, Texas. Suzanne is on the Community Advocacy Council for the Simon Youth Academy at Katy Mills for the Katy Independent School District.
